

TESTIMONIALS - ABSTRACT FROM MARIANNA RUSCHE

The Young International Network (YIN) of CAPP bears responsibility in two directions. As young Catholics, it is our responsibility to spread the CST across the young world. It is our mission to give the young generation the hope and spirit to believe in their future, in the Catholic Church and in God. The CST is a tool to better envisage how to deal with creation and take care of it. It can help us to make more inclusive and sustainable choices for now and the future - particularly for some of the major questions of these times. To reach that, the CST needs to become easier accessible. For those who are interested, YIN is a thriving environment to experience and promote the CST.

Moreover, it is our responsibility to raise awareness in the Catholic Church of the issues that really matter to the young generation such as climate change and digitalisation/AI. YIN has pursued this path, e.g. by presenting papers on the scarcity of water and on the chances of AI. We are committed to raising awareness for strong issues in the future.
