

CURRICULUM VITAE

STEFANO ZAMAGNI

stefano.zamagni@unibo.it

Professor of Economics, University of Bologna

Adjunct professor, SAIS Europe of the Johns Hopkins University

Two daughters and four grandchildren

Degree in Economics Catholic University of Milan (1966), cum laude; Linacre College, Oxford (1968-1973)

Honorary degrees from the following Universities: Carolina of Prague, Catholic of Santiago (Chile), de Vitoria of Madrid, Cordoba and Catholic University of Buenos Aires (Argentina)

Member of the Pontifical Academy of Social Sciences and of the Pontifical Dicastery for human integral development; president of the Italian Agency for the Third Sector (2007-2012); president of the Italian Foundation for gift since 2014.

Publications in Italian, English and Spanish refer to the history of economic thought, economic epistemology, the relation between ethics and economics, the economics of cooperation and the third sector, but above all civil economics, a paradigm of Italian inspiration which places the common good at the centre, overcoming the libertarian individualism of mainstream economics.