

Cristina Finocchi Mahne

Cristina Finocchi Mahne, economist with over 20 years of experience as a C-suite executive/board member of financial institutions, also blue chips, and top management consulting firms.

She has over 15 years of experience as independent board member of companies publicly listed in Italy/USA (banking/financial, consumer discretionary, energy transition/infrastructure, media/communication, telco towers). She has over 10 years of experience as chair of board committees (audit, risk, sustainability / nomination and remuneration); over 10 years on boards of global companies; over 10 years of academic experience in economic, financial and sustainability subjects and she is currently adjunct professor, faculty of banking financial and insurance sciences, at Catholic University of the Sacred Heart in Milan and at Luiss Business School Milan hub. She has over 10 years as a national chair of a global foundation and she is advisory board / scientific committee member of Italian / US academic institutions and global foundations (WCD Foundation, USA; Fordham Gabelli School of Business NYC, USA; Centesimus Annus Pro-Pontifice Foundation, Vatican City; CSEA, Research Center for Applied Economics; Catholic University of the Sacred Heart, Italy). She has developed a consolidated experience in regulated sectors. In all her executive, non-executive and academic roles, she has been dealing proactively with ESG sustainability matters since 1999.

She holds an MBA from the Luiss Business School and a degree in Economics and Business from La Sapienza University. She is speaker at national and international conferences/seminars and she is author of books and articles on economic-financial matters, corporate governance and ESG sustainability at large.